NEW SMYRNA VOTES BONDS FOR $63,000

PROPOSITION CARRIED BY VOTE OF 5 TO 1

THRIVING CITY EXPECTS TO HAVE SYSTEM OF WATERWORKS AND SEWERAGE NEXT YEAR—PUBLIC WORKS BOARD CHOSEN.

NEW SMYRNA, Jan. 13.—By a vote of more than five to one the voters of New Smyrna at the special bonding election held yesterday decided to issue bonds for the purpose of installing systems of waterworks and sewers and for funding the present city indebtedness.

The three propositions in the special election were for $47,000 for waterworks bonds, $12,000 for sewer bonds and $4,000 for funding bonds. The vote on the waterworks bonds was 69 to 11; the vote on the sewer system bonds was 69 to 12; the vote on the funding bonds was 61 to 17.

At the same time five members of the board of public works were chosen, the five men elected being W. P. Shryock, W. P. Wilkinson, G. W. Brown, E. E. Ireland and G. H. Crane. The vote on members of the board of public works was as follows: W. P. Shryock, 74; W. P. Wilkinson, 65; G. W. Brown, 68; E. E. Ireland, 52; G. H. Crane, 47; D. P. Smith, 29; M. A. Galbreath, 22; T. L. Howell, 18; L. B. Burchelle, 17; F. W. Sams, 11.

The plans and specifications for the waterworks and sewer systems already adopted call for an expenditure of $30,000 for the sewer system, one-third of which is to be paid by the city and one-third by the property owners on each side of the street served by the system.

SOUTH ST. GROCERY ENTERED BY BURGLAR

WENT IN THROUGH INADEQUATELY GUARDED WINDOW. ROBBED REGISTER—PROBABLY WORK OF LOCAL "ARTIST."

Some time Tuesday night the grocery store of G. M. Brown, at 24 South street, was entered by a burglar and robbed. It is known that the thief took several dollars in change from the cash register, but Mr. Brown was unable to say that anything else of value was taken. The safe, which had not been locked the night before, was open but nothing inside had been disturbed. Entrance to the store was effected through a rear window in which a pane of glass was broken, permitting the burglar to unfasten the latch.

The police department is working on the case, but Chief Milton reports that so far no clue to the burglar's identity has been obtained. It is believed, however, that the burglary was the work of an amateur, probably a local product.

CALLED NORTH BY TELEGRAM ANNOUNCING DEATH OF FATHER

C. E. Luther, proprietor of the Flagler hotel on North Beach street, left Wednesday morning for Providence, R. I., in response to a telegram advising him of the death of his father, William H. Luther, of that city. Mr. Luther spent last winter with his son at the Flagler hotel in Jacksonville. The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Margaret Maynard of 32 South Beach street.

MOVEMENTS OF ARMIES HAMPERED BY STORMS; MANY ARTILLERY DUELS

PARIS, JAN. 13 (Official).—GREAT STORMS ALONG THE COAST, ON THE CHANNEL AND ON THE NORTH SEA ARE RENDERING OPERATIONS VERY DIFFICULT.

VIOLENT ARTILLERY DUELS, FAVORING THE FRENCH, HAVE OCCURRED IN THE REGIONS OF NIEUPORT, YPRES, RHEIMS TO ARGONNE, AND SOISSONS TO BERRY AU BAC. THERE IS ALSO SEVERE FIGHTING IN PROGRESS ALONG THE AISNE NORTHEAST OF SOISSONS, WHERE THE GERMANS ARE MASSING AN IMMENSE ARMY.

THE FRENCH HAVE MAINTAINED THEIR POSITIONS ON THE HEIGHTS OF PENTES TO THE WEST, BUT TO THE EAST HAVE BEEN FORCED TO RELINQUISH SOME GROUND TO THE GERMANS.

IN THE VOSGES FOG AND HEAVY SNOWS ARE HAMPERING OPERATIONS.

DR. LINCOLN HULLEY WILL ADDRESS PALMETTO CLUB

The regular bi-weekly meeting of the Palmetto club will be held tomorrow at 2:30 at the Orange avenue club house. Dr. Lincoln Hulley, president of Stetson university, will address the club women. The hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. T. E. Fitzgerald and Mrs. M. P. Cornwall.

The cool north winds that have prevailed so much of late cut down the attendance at the band concerts given at the kiosk on South Beach street, few people caring to brave the sharpness of the wind for any length of time, even to enjoy the music.

GIVES ENCOURAGING REPORT OF BUSINESS CONDITIONS

S. C. Archibald returned Tuesday evening from a business trip of two weeks or more to points in the middle northern and eastern states and his observation of the business conditions is very encouraging. Mr. Archibald states that there is a very appreciable improvement in the central states and especially in the east, and even in the cotton states the conditions are somewhat brighter. Prominent business men with whom he was in touch were confident, he says, that business would continue to improve throughout the country from this time forward.

SEVEN CONTESTANTS ALREADY WELL OVER THE MILLION MARK

THOSE WHO AT FIRST WORKED WITH A LUKE-WARM SPIRIT HAVE NOW BECOME ACTIVE IN THE CONTEST.

As the days roll by the interest of contestants and their friends in the Gazette-News Panama-Pacific Exposition contest increases and those who at first worked with a luke-warm spirit have now started with all earnestness to land the big prizes.

Of the contestants in Daytona, four are already up in the million, and three of the out-of-Daytona contestants have already passed the million mark, with two others, each lacking but little of a million votes.

One young lady from Daytona and one from outside of Daytona will go to California next spring as guests of the Gazette-News with all expenses paid, and six other valuable prizes, well worth striving for, will be given

Review of Europe's War to Jan. 1

By Capt. GEORGE L. KILMER, Late U. S. V.

THE celerity with which the nations sprang into the fray at the call to the world's war of 1914 has no parallel in modern history. It required nearly twenty years of Napoleon's aggression to summon an alliance of hostile powers to the Battle of the Nation in 1813; in 1914 just a spark in a tinder box.

The tinder box was the "European situation," with its half century record of "war clouds," "grave crises," "diplomatic incidents," "armaments," "mobilizations" and local wars of the first class. The vital spark which set a continent on fire was a mere Balkan incident, like hundreds that have gone before without arousing a shot generally and at the worst stirring up comparatively petty wars.

World politics lay underneath all, and the assassination in June of an Austrian heir apparent and little Servia's spirited denial of responsibility merely started the usual Balkan blaze. The fact that feel was at hand to make a conflagration in August had nothing to do with the Balkan muddle.

Austria, Germany, England and France each promptly announced that the fight was for individual existence. Judgment of their arguments and reasonings should be left for minds trained [illegible]

On Aug. 23 the allies made their last stand in Belgium at Mons and east ward. Namur fell, and, although General French's Britons fought heroically around Mons, only rapid retreat staved off disaster. Maubeuge, the center, held out, but Von Kluck swung westward. This time he skirted the borders of Lille, bore west toward the river Somme and was met by the allies on a line running from Cambrai eastward to Montmirail.

Still on the left, the scene of battle fell on the Britons. At Cambrai the Britons fought so well that the battle line was kept intact. Again it retreated and that with haste. For the rest the story is one of rapid retreat on the part of the allies, confusion in France and England and the expectation of a rehearsal of 1870, when the disaster of Sedan, Sept. 1, opened the road to German investment of Paris.

Review of Europe's War to Jan. 1

By Capt. GEORGE L. KILMER, Late U. S. N.

THE celerity with which the nations sprang into the fray at the call to the world's war of 1914 has no parallel in modern history. It required nearly twenty years of Napoleon's aggressions to summon an alliance of hostile powers to the Battle of the Nation in 1813; in 1914 just a spark in a tinder box.

The tinder box was the "European situation," with its half century record of "war clouds," "grave crises," "diplomatic incidents," "armaments," "mobilisations" and local wars of the first class. The vital spark which set a continent on fire was a mere Balkan incident, like hundreds that have gone before without arousing a shot generally and at the worst stirring up comparatively petty wars.

World politics lay underneath all, and the assassination in June of an Austrian heir apparent and little Servia's spirited denial of responsibility merely started the usual Balkan blaze. The fact that fuel was at hand to make a conflagration in August had nothing to do with the Balkan muddle.

Austria, Germany, England and France each promptly announced that the fight was for individual existence. Judgment of their arguments and reasoning should be left for minds trained tions from Liege and Namur and south along the eastern section of France, where his supporting armies lay.

On Aug. 23 the allies made their last stand in Belgium at Mons and eastward. Namur fell, and, although General French's Britons fought heroically around Mons, only rapid retreat staved off disaster. Maubeuge, the center, held out, but Von Kluck swung westward. This time he skirted the borders of Lille, bore west toward the river Somme and was met by the allies on a line running from Cambrai eastward to Maubeuge.

Still on the left, the brunt of battle fell on the Britons. At Cambrai the Britons fought so well that the battle line was kept intact. Again it retreated and that with haste. For the rest the story is one of rapid retreat on the part of the allies, confusion in France and England and the expectation of a rehearsal of 1870, when the disaster of Sedan, Sept. 1, opened the road to German investment of Paris.

The Oldest Handicraft.

The toy industry is one of the oldest industries in the world. The British museum can show us a doll with strings of mud beads for hair and others with movable arms with which the children of ancient Egypt played on the banks of the Nile. Jointed dolls and dolls' furniture have come down to us from the days of Greece and Rome, and we know that balls, tops and toy animals were favorite playthings at an even earlier date.

Rooting Slips in Water.

The amateur flower grower will find that the quickest and best method of rooting slips of geraniums, nasturtiums, etc., is by placing them in a glass of water in a sunny window. In a few days the roots start, and they can then be planted in soil. From a single plant one may have a collection of plants for bedding, such as would cost a dollar or two at the greenhouse.

METHODISTS ARRANGE ENTERTAINMENT COURSE

The Tourist Bible class of the Daytona Beach Methodist church, through a well-chosen committee, has just completed arrangements for a lecture and entertainment course given by the class. At very reasonable figures it is possible to obtain a course that is well worth three times the price. The first number of the course will be a trip by automobiles to DeLeon Springs and a visit to Stetson University. Many cars have been donated free for the occasion. More are desired. On the lecture course such well known and popular men as Dr. R. A. Carline, district superintendent of the Jacksonville district, Dr. Chas. F. Goss, of Cincinnati, O., and Governor-elect of Georgia, N. E. Harris. Several delightful water trips are also included in the course. A cordial invitation is extended to tourists and visitors to avail themselves of this opportunity for out-of-door and in-door social and intellectual enjoyment.

NEW FIRE ENGINE WORKED LIKE CHARM

UNDER 160 LBS. PRESSURE A STREAM OF WATER IS FORCED THROUGH 1200 FEET OF HOSE. RESULT SATISFACTORY.

A new gasoline fire engine, the purchase of which is being contemplated by the Seabreeze city officials, was thoroughly tried out today by a public demonstration in the presence of interested spectators.

Jerome Burgman, who is to serve as engineer, caused the engine to be drawn by hand down to the Halifax river, and after generating 160 pounds pressure forced a stream of water through 1200 feet of hose to a point near Wilman's opera house on Ocean boulevard. Here two men held the nozzle of the hose, and without the slightest trouble, played a stream of water on the roof of the building, which is three stories high.

According to Engineer Burgman, the demonstration proved very satisfactory. In addition to the engine two hose carts, with 600 feet of hose each, are included with the apparatus. Members of both the Seabreeze and Daytona Beach city councils witnessed the exhibition and appeared to be highly pleased over the result.

This type of engine is the same as is being used by New Smyrna, and other small cities in Florida, and is looked upon as having no equal by those who have tried it out on stubborn conflagrations.

Charles Derr and his daughter, who were called to the bedside of his father, arrived from South Dakota Tuesday. Mr. Derr had been in feeble health for sometime. Mr. and Mrs. Derr are located in the Keating coquina cottage on Seabreeze avenue.

At an executive meeting of the Tourist Bible class Monday evening, a committee was appointed to beautify the church lawn, which will also include the parsonage grounds. The committee, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Collver, at the head, will act under the superintendency of L. H. White, florist.

$20,000 WINTER HOME TO BE ERECTED BY H. C. ROWE

Building material is on the ground for the erection of a $20,000 winter home on Peninsula drive, south of Goodall street on the river front, for Henry C. Rowe, contract for which has been let to Contractor Fuquay. A 200-foot tract of Mr. Rowe's holdings was purchased a short time since, through the agency of Real Estate Agent J. E. D. Graves, from McCoy Brothers. When completed this residence will be one of the handsomest on the peninsula, which is gaining favor each year as an ideal spot for attractive cottages and substantial residences.

FOUND UGLY ALLIGATOR IN A PILE OF WOOD

George Huber, of Bronson, Mich., who, with Mrs. Huber, is spending the winter in the Sweeney apartment house on Harvey avenue, found in his wood pile an alligator measuring two feet ten inches a few days ago. It appears that Mr. Huber ordered a load of wood, which had just been delivered. He went to work to stack it up, but was called to dinner. After dinner he returned to the job, and what was his surprise on removing a few sticks of wood to discover the caudal extremities of an alligator. His calls to his wife brought out the other roomers in the house, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Bauer. So much notice incensed the saurian and he turned ugly, and dared the crowd to touch him. Seeing the alligator was about to get away, Mr. Bauer plucked up his courage and plucked the 'gator by the tail and managed to hold on to him until the other members of the party succeeded in roping him. Well, the long and short of it is that Mr. Huber is mighty proud of his find—being from Michigan, he naturally is not used to stepping out in the back yard and picking up a big 'gator, careless like. Of course some of the glory descends on Mr. Bauer, but for whose courageous act the 'gator must have escaped. The artist has been around the house and a good picture of the group has been made, interest centering in the 'gator, of course. Mr. Huber has the 'gator confined in the back yard, and numerous visitors have been around to look at him.

GET THE HABIT, DRINK MAXWELL HOUSE COFFEE

Miss Bemis, who has a winter home at Port Orange, and is employed as a demonstrator for Maxwell House coffee and the Golden Key evaporated milk, has been dispensing the delicious fluids all week at the Atlantic Pharmacy. Miss Bemis is a charming young woman, and it is doubtful if there is a young man on the peninsula who would have the heart to refuse a cup of coffee prepared by her hands. It is said there are certain fellows here who haven't drunk a thing but coffee for a whole week.

"WE SHOULD WORRY" SAYS MANAGER OF HOME BAKERY

F. E. Ramsey, who conducts the Home bakery in the Oyama block, is a Daily News booster. For the past few days a portion of the front page of the paper has occupied a place in the store window. The display line across the paper reads, "Flour's High Price Closes Hundreds of Bakeries." Beneath this Ramsey has attached a note which reads: "We should worry; we will continue to serve our customers with our large loaf of home made bread if flour goes up to $10.00 a barrel." Hence the high cost of living doesn't effect peninsula residents.

FOUND UGLY ALLIGATOR IN A PILE OF WOOD

George Huber, of Bronson, Mich., who, with Mrs. Huber, is spending the winter in the Sweeney apartment house on Harvey avenue, found in his wood pile an alligator measuring two feet ten inches a few days ago. It appears that Mr. Huber ordered a load of wood, which had just been delivered. He went to work to stack it up, but was called to dinner. After dinner he returned to the job, and what was his surprise on removing a few sticks of wood to discover the caudal extremities of an alligator. His calls to his wife brought out the other roomers in the house, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Bauer. So much notice incensed the saurian and he turned ugly, and dared the crowd to touch him. Seeing the alligator was about to get away, Mr. Bauer plucked up his courage and plucked the 'gator by the tail and managed to hold on to him until the other members of the party succeeded in roping him. Well, the long and short of it is that Mr. Huber is mighty proud of his find—being from Michigan, he naturally is not used to stepping out in the back yard and picking up a big 'gator, careless like. Of course some of the glory descends on Mr. Bauer, but for whose couragous act the 'gator must have escaped. The artist has been around the house and a good picture of the group has been made, interest centering in the 'gator, of course. Mr. Huber has the 'gator confined in the back yard, and numerous visitors have been around to look at him.

GET THE HABIT, DRINK MAXWELL HOUSE COFFEE

Miss Bemis, who has a winter home at Port Orange, and is employed as a demonstrator for Maxwell House coffee and the Golden Key evaporated milk, has been dispensing the delicious fluids all week at the Atlantic pharmacy. Miss Bemis is a charming young woman, and it is doubtful if there is a young man on the peninsula who would have the heart to refuse a cup of coffee prepared by her hands. It is said there are certain fellows here who haven't drank a thing but coffee for a whole week.

"WE SHOULD WORRY" SAYS MANAGER OF HOME BAKERY

F. E. Ramsey, who conducts the Home bakery in the Oyama block, is a Daily News booster. For the past few days a portion of the front page of the paper has occupied a place in the store window. The display line across the paper reads, "Flour's High Price Closes Hundreds of Bakeries." Beneath this Ramsey has attached a note which reads: "We should worry; we will continue to serve our customers with our large loaf of home made bread if flour goes up to $10.00 a barrel." Hence the high cost of living doesn't effect peninsula residents.

MRS. BELMONT LAUDED "WITHIN THE LAW" PLAY

SOCIAL LEADER AND FOUNDER OF WORKINK WOMEN'S CLUBS PRAISED SHOW TO BE HERE TONIGHT.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, of New York, takes a keen interest in the question of minimum wage for women, and in fact in many other phases of present day economics where women are concerned. Mrs. Belmont has founded many clubs for working women, conducts a lunch room where decent food is served cheaply for the benefit of women who work and interests herself in a thousand ways, wherever she can lend a hand toward helping those of her own sex who are less fortunate than she. It was principally because of her interest in department-store conditions that she recently visited the play "Within the Law," when the striking melodrama of up-to-date happenings in New York life was having its unprecedented successful two years' run at the Eltinge theater. Mrs. Belmont occupied a box and watched the vicissitudes of fortune that attend Mary Turner," the shop-girl heroine of the drama, with keenest interest. Afterward the great social leader and mother of the Duchess of Marlborough wrote of it as follows to the author: "I was among the first to see your wonderful play and ever since I have been urging all my friends to go to see it." Clara Joel, the charming young actress, will again be seen as Mary Turner. Miss Joel is the young lady who created such a splendid impression in Daytona on her appearance here last season as the shop girl heroine of the play.

Pulsations of the Blood.

A grown-up person has ordinarily twenty-eight pounds of blood, and at each pulsation of the heart ten ounces are sent through the arteries and veins. The pulsations average 120 per minute in infancy, 90 in manhood and 60 in old age, and are rather more rapid in women than in men.

Duty of the Wiser Part.

Since the foolish part of mankind will make wars, from time to time, with each other, not having sense enough otherwise to settle their differences, it certainly becomes the wiser part, who cannot prevent these wars, to alleviate as much as possible the calamities attending them.—Benjamin Franklin.

About It and About.

Pat was called into court to testify to a talk that he had with the defendant in a civil suit, and everything went along swimmingly until the lawyer attempted to bring out the important points of the conversation. "Now, then, Pat," said he, encouragingly, "please tell the court what you and the defendant talked about." "Yis, sor," answered Pat, willingly. "We talked about fifteen minutes." "No, no, no!" interposed the lawyer. "I mean what did you and the defendant talk over?" "Yis, sor," was the calm reminder of Pat. "We talked over the tilephone, sor."

PORT ORANGE.

PORT ORANGE, Jan. 13.—Dr. H. K. Sabin last week returned from a several weeks' visit to New York city and nearby points, and reports finding plenty of zero weather, on one occasion 26 below.

Coby Billings, wife and four friends, from Ludlow Falls, Ohio, have rented part of the old Mocker house and are occupying the same.

S. Young has most of the pillars and considerable lumber on the ground for his dwelling in the Towasa-Port addition along the river.

Professor Aust, who is finishing the term of the Blake school (whose teacher took advantage of the holidays to get married), was looking over our town on Sunday last.

T. J. Sparkman has been building an addition to his Spruce Creek house.

The continued rains have put Ridgewood in bad condition and greatly interfered with the much needed repairs.

Travelers judge a town by the part they see.

Ridgewood avenue and Dunlawton, from Ridgewood to the Halifax river bridge, presents a rather sorry appearance. Sidewalks and some street work in this part of town would be a big advertisement as this section lies along the route traveled by a very large number of tourists from all sections of the north, who pass through other towns that are putting forth united efforts to make a favorable impression on the passers by. This section of our town should make a good showing, but is far behind some other parts. Travelers would see little to attract them under the present conditions.

There is fine fishing at this time. Some nice strings of sheepshead are sufficient proof of this, and trouts are large, from five pounds and upwards are quite common. Several eight or more and one 10½ pounder have been caught recently.

A visitor of one of our prominent citizens recently remarked on the improved appearance of the streets and mentioned the fact that last year at the time of his visit there was not a walk in the town.

The Davis store has been bought by a Mr. Mathews who will continue the business.

This community was shocked at the sudden death of Mrs. Jane Johnson, which occurred on Sunday morning last. While the deceased has not enjoyed good health for some months owing to heart trouble, she was apparently as well as usual on the previous day. The deceased was the widow of George Johnson, a confederate veteran, who died several years since. One grandson, C. W. Johnson, for several years F. E. C. agent at this place, now express agent at Cedarkeys, and two half-brothers, George W., of Port Orange, and J. W. Johnson, of Daytona, are the only near relatives left to mourn the departed, who was interred in Woodland cemetery, after services at her late residence, conducted by Pastor Nease, of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. J. L. Pattillo. Aunt Jane was at least 75 years of age and had resided in this community for many years.

Beyond Her Understanding.

A woman can never understand why her husband has to work so hard in order to make both ends meet, when he is so much smarter than other men.

Valuable Gum.

A gum has been discovered in large quantities in the Malay peninsula that yields from 10 to 70 per cent pure rubber.

Daily Thought.

There are souls in the world who have the gift of finding joy everywhere, and of bearing it behind them when they go. Joy gushes from under their fingers. Like jets of light. Their influence is an inevitable gladdening of the heart.

D. H. S. CONFIDENT OF VICTORY AT MIAMI

BASKET BALL BOYS ARE CREDITED WITH HAVING STRONG TEAM AND WILL ENDEAVOR TO SUSTAIN REPUTATION.

The respect with which the clubs of the D. H. S. basket ball team are viewed in other parts of the state is shown from the following clipping from the Miami Metropolis of recent date:

"A fast basket ball team is expected from Daytona for a game with the Miami high school quintet and another with the city league teams during the mid-winter festival. The games are expected to take place on Friday and Saturday evenings, January 15th and 16th.

It is intended that these games shall become a part of the Knights of Dade's official program for the entertainment of the thousands of visitors expected to arrive in Miami to witness the events of the festival.

"The Daytona high school is said to have one of the best fives on the coast. Hence their basket ball fans are joyful."

In place of the city league game mentioned in the Metropolis, however, the D. H. S. team will meet the Ft. Lauderdale quintet at the Miami high school gymnasium, Friday night, and the Miami team on Saturday night of this week. The members of the local squad will make every effort to cop honors, and are going on the trip with just the right amount of confidence.

The following members of the squad seem to have the best chance of making the trip to Miami with Coach George Marks: Gardiner, Branch, Hawn, Drake, Milligan, S. Green and Daly. The team will leave here Thursday evening on the 5:10 train, arriving in Miami in plenty of time for breakfast, and will return to Daytona sometime Sunday.

Worthy Comparison.

"As near as I can figure it," commented Judge Pettibolt of Chanute "a treaty and a carved roast proclaim to his wife to water the plants and to spend the evenings at home, when he sends her away to see the folks have many strong points in common."—Kansas City Star.

REVIEW OF EUROPE'S WAR TO JANUARY 1

French army attacked from Nogent, and after daylight on the 7th, together with the British, advanced and held up Von Kluck.

Von Buelow's Second German army had not got up on his left east of Montmirail, as planned, and that flank was "in the air." Von Kluck halted his march and reformed behind the Grand Morin, with the forest of Crecy on his front. It took all day to push the Germans behind the Petit Morin and capture Montmirail. On the 9th Von Kluck made a stiff fight on the Marne against the British alone, the lay of the ground forcing the Fifth French army to lose a day and a half getting around east of Chateau Thierry. This was on the 10th, with the German center at Meaux and Triport.

Meanwhile the Sixth French army had waited too long. Von Kluck stationed only a rear guard along the Ourcq as he plunged forward to a rendezvous appointed for the German armies south of the Seine. Throughout the 8th and 9th this rear guard held to the Ourcq against ever increasing foes, and during the 10th Von Kluck retraced his steps over the line, H, and that, according to the French commander, General Joffre, in a masterly manner, to the Aisne at Soissons.

Germany's farthest reach toward Paris in 1914 halted at Lagny, five or six miles from the fortified circle around the French capital. Great praise has been given to French genius which saved Paris the 7th of September. Perhaps the loftiest is that spoken by Ferrero, the Italian historian and critic, who said:

"That day changed something in the world. Europe no longer feared Germany. It was an event whose astounding consequences will result in the history of the world."

That the German army was superior to all others as a fighting machine remained to be proved. But within ten days after the German line of September was developed along the Aisne and the Meuse, General John French, the British leader, said that the new position was too strong to be carried by allied attack. And so it has remained.

Fire in the Kaiser's Rear.

Germany's back door as she faces her western foes is as important as was the back door of the Southern Confederacy in 1862-3 when guarded by the Mississippi river. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and while Germany's eastern frontier is strongly fortified, there are weak spots in E. Prussia. Pursuing in the east his policy of the west to defend his territory by carrying the war into the enemy's country, the kaiser sent troops across the border into Russian Poland at Kalisch on Aug. 3, and a week later an Austrian column crossed from Galicia into Poland. On the 20th the Austrians won a battle at Krasnik and marched on to Lublin. To meet this menace in Poland, Russia marched on Lemberg, in eastern Galicia, and also sent strong columns from Vilna and Warsaw into East Prussia, capturing Gumbinnen, Insterberg and Allenstein and threatening the strong post at Koenigsberg.

By the end of August the Russians had been expelled from the Koenigsberg region, but in the south they had forced the Austrians to abandon the Radom campaign by closing in on Lemberg. Early in September Lemberg fell and Galicia was annexed by Russia. By the middle of the month the Russians had been expelled from East Prussia with enormous losses, but the Austrians in the south were besieged at Przemysl, having to give up Jaroslaw, a neighboring railway center and feeder for the fortress.

Following the defeated Russians from Tannenberg, in East Prussia, the German General von Hindenburg ventured to the shores of the Niemen, in Russia, and on Sept. 25 was repulsed and hurled back into the Suwalki swamps and defeated on Oct. 3 at Augustowo. The first week in October the Germans and Austrians advanced from Cracow on the south, Kalisz in the center and Thorn in the north toward Warsaw, on the Vistula. The Vistula extends from Cracow through central Poland across East Prussia to the Baltic sea. It is everywhere unfordable, with no bridge north of the line of Warsaw and Plock.

The middle of October fighting raged all along the Vistula in Poland, and the German allies were at the gates of Warsaw. On the 18th they were checked and at the end of the month defeated on the Pilitza river and hurled back toward the Warthe and their own border.

trians south of the San river, recaptured Jaroslaw and returned to the siege of Przemysl. In the north they again advanced on Koenigsberg, and raiding Cossacks even penetrated German territory in Silesia and Posen within twenty miles of the fortress of Thorn. Johannisburg, in East Prussia, was occupied by Russians on Nov. 11. This move the Germans countered by a column sent from Thorn, which on the 15th drove the Russians back through Soldau upon Plock.

Cracow, 200 miles southwest, and Koenigsberg, 200 miles north of Warsaw, are fortresses guarding the German rear when operating in Poland. With either of them in Russia's hands German possession of the Warsaw region would be perilous. At this writing Austria holds Cracow firmly, and her ally is intrenched before Warsaw, in positions around Lodz and Lowicz, which were won in December by ventures which the Russians officially declared "unbelievable." Germans also hold Koenigsberg.

The Naval End of the War Game.

Sea battles have been many, but nothing has been decided excepting the efficiency of some new armament. The world has waited twenty years for a test of the big battleship in line of battle fighting. Even battle cruisers have not been put to supreme test.

In submarine work honors seem to rest with the Germans, whose U-9 attacked single handed three British cruisers and sank them all. This proved that a submarine can be more than a match for armament far and away its superior in surface action. Commenting on this and other triumphs of his submarines, the German admiral, Von Tirpitz, says, "Our success so far, however, hardly justifies the conclusion that big ships have become obsolete."

The purpose of a navy is to help armies win land battles. To this end warships may convoy troops and provisions or destroy the troop and supply ships of the enemy. A British fleet might turn the tide for the allies on the Belgian coast and a German fleet do the same for the Germans. In either case a sweeping victory on the scale of those in the North sea or in South American waters might decide a campaign.

The roaming German cruisers Emden, Scharnhorst, Gneisenau, Leipzig, Nurnberg and Dresden drew from European waters British vessels superior in individual and aggregate strength. Had these been needed at home German strategy would have scored. But England could well afford to spare battleships and battle cruisers when their absence meant the security of her South American trade, the net result of the victory off the Falkland Islands on Dec. 8, victory which humbled the German flag on the high seas.

Phenomenal Battle Losses.

Trustworthy data as to the relative destructiveness of modern weapons will not be available until revised official reports are at hand. It is not shown by the history of the evolution of weapons that increased destructiveness follows increased efficiency. Relative increase or decrease can be proved only by percentages of the number hit to the number engaged. The percentage in recent wars has run as high as 30 per cent for small units and 20 to 25 for divisions of 6,000 to 7,000 men in single engagements.

In the European war there have been slaughters in spots. The civil war had them at Antietam, Gettysburg, Chickamauga and Petersburg. A general should get adequate returns for his investment of lives; failure to do that makes war a slaughter and not a science.

Progress in contriving new ways to kill in recent years has led to new ways of protecting soldiers. It has even been argued that advance in protection has sped beyond advance in danger; that wars will now be decided by long range guns demolishing inanimate matter, with minimum exposure of human lives; a crash of metal rather than of flesh and bone.

Rifled cannon, shrapnel and grape and canister were the nineteenth century answer to the bayonet, which had doubled or trebled the death dealing power of the man behind the musket. The repeating rifle gave the individual man long range canister to answer the short range artillery canister. Later repeating rifle answered repeating rifle, then came the machine gun to drown both repeater and canister fire.

Modern Tactics Safer.

Increased deadliness of firing does not imply that the "windrows of dead" known in the days of spear and battleax must return to the modern battlefield. In field artillery alone the bullet proof shield for gunners indicates the protective side in modern equipment. In the civil war when the infantryman's bayonet was outfought by canister from a field battery he took to cover and shot down the enemy's gunners and battery horses. In the sixties the log rampart and what low trench behind were the answer to shrapnel and bursting shell in a protracted fight like the Aisne-Yser line of 1914. A modern concealed trench is far ahead of logs and dirt rampart to protect men. Not alone devices for covering fighting men tend to minimize mortality, but tactics work for the same end. Rushes of dozens led by a sergeant carry forward under fire the thousands which formerly charged en masse.

Secretary of War Garrison says that it is much more difficult to kill men in battle nowadays than is generally supposed. Medical reports of the Russo-Japanese war, he says, show that out of every hundred casualties 83 per cent were caused by bullets; also that in that war it took 10,000 bullets to kill one man. Another authority says that it took 1,053 rifle shots to put one Japanese out of the fight in 1904, whereas in the Franco-Prussian war in 1870 one bullet in every 375 found its mark.

Next to bullets come artillery shots in effectiveness. In 1870 it required eighty French shots, weight 600 pounds, to disable one German, but in 1904 150 shots, weight nearly one ton, were fired to disable one Russian.

Appalling accounts of slaughter, especially of Germans, have been given, but at their worst Geok-Tepe in the Russo-Turkish war of 1881 leads in carnage. With breechloaders 1,000 Russians slew 8,000 Turks in one hour. Dead battle lines have been reported in the western zone. The writer saw one such at Antietam in 1862 when General Hooker's guns to the number of thirty swept with canister a thirty acre field of standing corn screening a Confederate line of battle. In his official report Hooker said, "In the time I am writing every stalk of corn in the northern and greater part of the field was cut as closely as could be done with a knife." Along the northern fence of that field lay, well aligned, over a thousand dead in gray.

Prisoners Counted in Losses.

It appears from analysis of reports of losses in Europe that when given in gross for any battle or campaign the prisoners are included among the "missing." Where the classes are separated, as in the English and German reports, the ratio of killed to wounded does not suggest carnivals of slaughter. In the Belgium to Paris campaign in August and September the total for the British was about 24,000. October to December, in western Belgium, the record was about 50,000. The British originally mustered 110,000 strong; increased later to 300,000 total, its loss of 84,000 amounts to 28 per cent.

The French and Belgians also lost 50,000 in western Belgium out of approximately 300,000. The allies estimate the Germans in Belgium at 500,000 and doubtless wouldn't own to superior numbers opposed, therefore their losses of 100,000 may be computed on 500,000 or less, hence at least 20 per cent.

Russians report "heavy losses" by Germans in their frontal attacks before Warsaw in December and name 20,000 as a safe aggregate. Elsewhere they place the German strength at 600,000. If so the loss was but little over 3 per cent, which is insignificant for a series of battles. Assuming that only 100,000 men were involved, the loss was 20 per cent, therefore not phenomenal.

Military Lessons.

The old and very obvious lesson that the belligerent which can move forces and supplies along interior lines has the advantage has been demonstrated anew in 1914. Germany may have lost her grip upon Paris the first week in September because Russia was pounding at her back door within the border of East Prussia. But she saved Berlin by being able to rush troops by rail from her western to her eastern border.

The machine gun since more perfected the enthusiasts of its early advocates. The modern idea is, it is true, that infantry should not be pushed against a line in blocks of masses. But it will happen that a leader will suppose that a position which he covets is but lightly defended or has been half emptied by long range artillery fire. Thinking that a rush will carry the day, he sends his men in, and that is the time for the machine gun to sow the field in front with bullets.

The massive cannon in which Germany seems to have the lead has often shown its capacity in practice.

GERMAN ANTI-AIR CRAFT GUN.

But Liege, Namur and Antwerp were leveled to convince doubters that it was a practical weapon for the field.

Improved methods of transportation make it possible to get to the desirable firing line engines that would formerly have been restricted to fortifications.

Test of War Aviation.

The aerial warship has yet to prove its efficiency. Bombs have been dropped, but without inflicting damage that would put a battleship or fort out of commission. The fact is that bombs have been in use for over a century, and the results of getting them into the air and down on a ship or fort have not been serious. What might have been had the anti-air craft gun not been brought to perfection will probably never be demonstrated. The torpedo which the submarine uses with such effect shows what happens when a bomb is put in the right place. Airships thousands of feet in the air have little chance of dropping a bomb in just the right place. The aeroplane is precisely what a limited class of thinkers believed it would prove to be—a good scout—nothing more.

The aeroplane is credited with having revealed to the Germans the obstacles that lay in the way of General von Kluck's dash to Paris on the 3d of September. It may also have revealed to the French that Von Kluck was headed for their capital and enabled them to put the obstacles in his path.

The motor truck or auto machine in any form has proved a success and revolutionized transportation in the fighting zone. Armies have often moved suddenly upon paths which the enemy little suspected they would take, and the motorcar enabled them to make speed unheard of in former wars. Russia's motor artillery checked the Germans on the Bzura river, Poland, in the December campaign.

The Situation in December.

Attempts by the allies in September to turn the German intrenched line on the Meuse and Aisne in France led to a second campaign in Belgium. The Germans swung their right westward from Antwerp, which they captured Oct. 7, to the channel coast. From the Lys southward to Arras the flat country was fought over until it came to a deadlock.

In December the Germans drew off troops to send to Poland, and the battle waned in Belgium until the end of the month. Germans were also sent from eastern France, and in their absence the French again invaded Alsace, recovering in mid-December German territory taken and then lost in August.

Hostilities began in July between Austria and Servia. Austrian invasion was repulsed, and Belgrade held out until Dec. 2. On the 15th Austria evacuated Belgrade, and the end of the month found the plucky Servians on Austrian soil opposite their capital.

Early in the war Montenegrins invaded Dalmatia, and French warships supported their attacks upon Cattaro, but the port remained in Austria's control at the end of the year.

Japan's activity ceased with the capture in November of Kiaochow, China, which the German population had defended for over two months with valor equal to that of the Belgians at the other edge of the continent. Turkey entered the conflict in November and at the close of December claimed victories along the Caucasian border, as well as naval successes in the Black sea. As in the northern and western fighting zones, conflicting claims of opposing sides on the Turkish frontier cannot always be reconciled. (Elsewhere in this review is given an outline of operations between Austro-Germans and Russians to the end of 1914.)

French army attacked from Nogent, and after daylight on the 7th, together with the British, advanced and held up Von Kluck.

Von Buelow's Second German army had not got up on his left east of Montmirail, as planned, and that flank was "in the air." Appalling accounts of slaughter, especially of Germans, have been given, but at their worst Geok-Tepe in the Russo-Turkish war of 1881 leads in carnage. With breechloaders 1,000 Russians slew 8,000 Turks in one hour. Dead battle lines have been reported in the western zone. The writer saw one such at Antietam in 1862 when General Hooker's guns to the number of thirty swept with canister a thirty acre field of standing corn screening a Confederate line of battle in his official report Hooker said, "In the time I am writing every stalk of corn in the northern and greater part of the field was cut as closely as could be done with a knife." Along the northern fence of that field lay, well aligned, over a thousand dead in gray.

Prisoners Counted In Losses.

It appears from analysis of reports of losses in Europe that when given in gross for any battle or campaign the prisoners are included among the "missing." Where the classes are separated, as in the English and German reports, the ratio of killed to wounded does not suggest carnivals of slaughter. In the Belgium to Paris campaign in August and September the total for the British was about 34,000. October to December, in western Belgium, the record was about 50,000. The British originally mustered 110,000 strong; increased later to 300,000 total, its loss of 84,000 amounts to 28 per cent.

The French and Belgians also lost 50,000 in western Belgium out of approximately 300,000. The allies estimate the Germans in Belgium at 500,000 and doubtless wouldn't own to superior numbers opposed, therefore their losses of 100,000 may be computed on 500,000 or less, hence at least 20 per cent.

Russians report "heavy losses" by Germans in their frontal attacks before Warsaw in December and name 20,000 as a safe aggregate. Elsewhere they place the German strength at 600,000. If so the loss was but little over 3 per cent, which is insignificant for a series of battles. Assuming that only 100,000 men were involved, the loss was 20 per cent, therefore not phenomenal.

Military Lessons.

The old and very obvious lesson that the belligerent which can move forces and supplies along interior lines has the advantage has been demonstrated anew in 1914. Germany may have lost her grip upon Paris the first week in September because Russia was pounding at her back door within the border of East Prussia. But she saved Berlin by being able to rush troops by rail from her western to the eastern border.

The machine gun once more justifies the enthusiasm of its early advocates. The modern idea is, it is true, that infantry should not be pushed against a line in blocks or masses. But it will happen that a leader will suppose that a position which he covets is but lightly defended or has been half subjected by long range artillery arms. Thinking that a rush will carry the day, he sends his men in, and that is the time for the machine gun to sow the field in front with bullets.

The massive cannon, in which Germany seems to have the lead, has often shown its capacity in practice.

GERMAN ANTI-AIR CRAFT GUN.

But Liege, Namur and Antwerp were needed to convince doubters that it was a practical weapon for the field.

Improved methods of transportation make it possible to get to the movable firing line engines that would formerly have been restricted to fortifications.

Test of War Aviation.

The aerial warship has yet to prove its efficiency. Bombs have been dropped, but without inflicting damage that would put a battleship or fort out of commission. The fact is that bombs have been in use for over a century, and the results of getting them into the air and down on a ship or fort have not been serious. What might have been had the anti-air craft gun not been brought to perfection will probably never be demonstrated. The torpedo which the submarine uses with such effect shows what happens when a bomb is put in the right place. Airships thousands of feet in the air have little chance of dropping a bomb in just the right place. The aeroplane is precisely what a limited class of thinkers believed it would prove to be—a good scout—sometimes.

The aeroplane is credited with having revealed to the Germans the obstacles that lay in the way of General von Kluck's dash to Paris on the 3d of September. It may also have revealed to the French that Von Kluck was headed for their capital and enabled them to put the obstacles in his path.

The motor truck or auto machine in any form has proved a success and revolutionized transportation in the fighting zone. Armies have often moved suddenly upon paths which the enemy little suspected they would take, and the motorcar enabled them to make speed unheard of in former wars. Russia's motor artillery checked the Germans on the Bzura river, Poland, in the December campaign.

The Situation In December.

Attempts by the allies in September to turn the German intrenched line on the Meuse and Aisne in France led to a second campaign in Belgium. The Germans swung their right westward from Antwerp, which they captured Oct. 7, to the channel coast. From Ostend southward to Arras the flat country was fought over until it came to a deadlock.

In December the Germans drew off troops to send to Poland, and the battle waned in Belgium until the end of the month. Germans were also sent from eastern France, and in their absence the French again invaded Alsace, recovering in mid-December German territory taken and then lost in August.

Hostilities began in July between Austria and Servia. Austrian invasion was repulsed, and Belgrade held out until Dec. 2. On the 15th Austria evacuated Belgrade, and the end of the month found the plucky Servians on Austrian soil opposite their capital.

Early in the war Montenegrins invaded Dalmatia, and French warships supported their attacks upon Cattaro, but the port remained in Austria's control at the end of the year.

Japan's activity ceased with the capture in November of Kiauchau, China, which the German population had defended for over two months with valor equal to that of the Belgians at the other edge of the continent. Turkey entered the conflict in November and at the close of December claimed victories along the Caucasian border, as well as naval successes in the Black sea. As in the northern and western fighting zones, conflicting claims of opposing sides on the Turkish frontier cannot always be reconciled. (Elsewhere in this review is given an outline of operations between Austro-Germans and Russians to the end of 1914.)

CONTEST IN SPELLING SCHEDULED FOR FEB. 6

Beach schools have been asked to appropriate five dollars each and the county board of education will be requested to give five dollars of ten dollars to a fund to provide prizes for winners in the contest. Contributions from business men or individuals will be gladly received.

Volusia county has been invited to take part in the district spelling contest at Orlando during the mid-winter fair, and it is planned therefore to divide the appropriation into as many prizes as possible, but making the first prize adequate in value to pay the winner's expenses to Orlando. The winners will be elected by the spelling club as delegates to the district contest.

Superintendent Sheppard further states that he and the county school board will appreciate the public's manifestation of interest in the spelling match.

It is not unlikely that a debating contest between the four high schools of Volusia county will also take place in Daytona on the same date, February 6th.

Copying Mother.

"Did your playmate enjoy her visit?" said a mother to her small daughter, who had just bidden adieu to a little friend. "Why, yes, mother; I think she did," replied the child. "I called her my dear very often in that dreary time you see when you have company."—Youth's Companion.

Natural Question.

"I will wash nine hands in innocence," said infant class Hilda, memorizing her Sunday school lesson. "What is innocence, mamma? Is it a new kind of soap?"

THURSDAY CARNIVAL NIGHT AT NAUTILUS

FREE DANCING—EXPERT McCULLEN TO GIVE ANOTHER SWIMMING EXHIBITION — DEMONSTRATION OF MODERN DANCES.

Tomorrow night is to be a big one at the Nautilus casino, and it is hoped it is confidently expected that a large and enthusiastic crowd of ladies and gentlemen will be on hand to participate in the festivities.

The management of the Nautilus announces that on tomorrow night—Thursday night—everything will be free at the casino. In the patio garden there will be dancing, for which privilege no charge whatever will be made. An interesting feature in this department will be a demonstration of modern dance movements.

Another exhibition well worth going some distance to see will be Swimming Master McCullen's difficult feats of swimming and diving in the big salt pool in the natatorium.

FOR HIRE, FOR AUCTION—Miss Anne Curtis, instructor; 16 years' experience. Phone 36 Black. 1121-01

Miss Anne Curtis, of Birmingham, Ala., is a guest at the Howard hotel, arriving in Daytona Tuesday evening. Miss Curtis, who has personal friends in this city, is said to be an excellent instructor in card playing and will remain in the teaching of auction bridge while here.

After an absence of seven years, Judge and Mrs. Henry A. King, of Springfield, Mass., are visiting Daytona friends, and are guests at the Peters Grand. Judge King presides over the superior court of Springfield, and is among the eminent jurists of Massachusetts. He was surprised to note so many changes in the city since his last visit and is highly pleased with the numerous improvements made.

Furnished apartments of 3 rooms, moderate rent. 605 S. Ridgewood ave. 1121-01

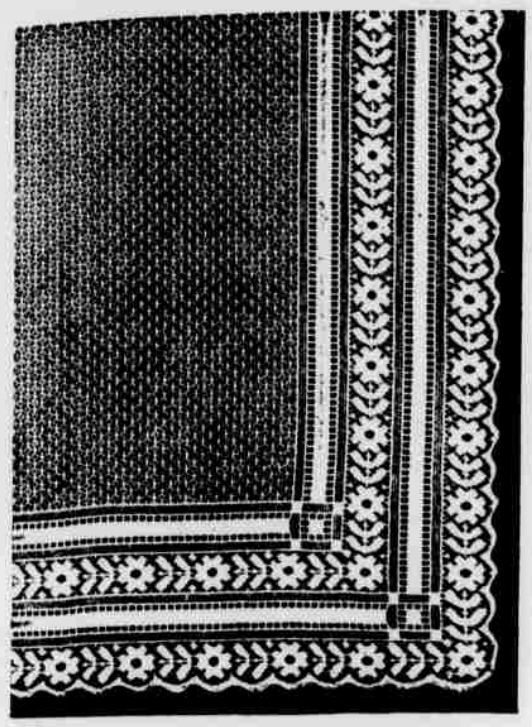

The use of the scraper on Beach and other streets has done much to improve their condition and this is especially so of Volusia avenue from Ridgewood to the railroad where the roadway has been relieved of a quantity of loose material which at every rain formed a sea of mud.

Mrs. George F. Locke and baby, Grace Allen Locke, arrived Monday evening from Greenville, S. C., and will spend the remainder of the season here with Mrs. Locke's father, T. S. Wood, at his home on South Palmetto avenue. Mr. Locke may join his wife and baby here for a short time later in the season. Mrs. Locke is well known in Daytona having, prior to her marriage, been in charge for several years of the Western Union telegraph office in this city.

Originally a Chinese Bird.

Pheasants, notwithstanding their aristocratic magnificence of appearance, readily interbreed with humbler kinds of birds, including the common bantam fowl, the guinea hen and the black grouse. English pheasants are the descendants of Chinese birds, which, long ago, were brought to England and crossed either with grouse or with some undescribed native species of pheasant, which possessed no great beauty. The descendant of a male pheasant and a domestic hen is known as a "piece."

Pheasants and Turkeys.

The fame of the pheasant in England and western Europe rests upon its qualities as a game fowl, and the species known there are not remarkable for beauty. Pheasants are not indigenous to America, and here the ruffed grouse is often mistakenly called a pheasant. Our native turkeys are closely related to the pheasant family.

To Melt Paraffin.

Take a large empty tomato can or any other large can; cut it off from the top all around about two inches from the bottom with a can opener. It is large enough for any jar and deep enough to paraffin a little way past the cover of the jar if there is enough paraffin in when melted to fill can three-fourths full. It can be put right on the stove and the paraffin melts very quickly.

"Dastardly" Youth.

A [illegible] teacher tells this story as illustrating the curious association of ideas often entertained by children. "I do love Peace," one of her small pupils exclaimed in ecstasy. "He's an awfully dastardly. There's nothing under heaven that he doesn't dast do!"

When Friendship Fails.

NEWS OF THE HOTELS

B. F. Palmer and wife, and A. G. Weed, of Stamford, Conn., stopped at Schmidt's hotel for a couple of days before proceeding to their Sarasota, Fla., residence.

John Leonard, a New Yorker, who has spent the last 15 or 16 winters in Bermuda, has registered at Schmidt's for the rest of the winter, having decided to give the Florida climate a "whirl."

Carl G. Whattler, of Buffalo, N. Y., is registered at Schmidt's and will remain as a guest of this house for the rest of the season. Mr. Whattler is chief clerk in the offices of the Central of Florida railway.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dub, of Buffalo, N. Y., who have been at Schmidt's for the past two or three weeks, left Monday for Miami where they expect to spend some time. Mr. Dub, who is an ardent fisherman, was so impressed with the beauties of Daytona and the possibilities for the angler, that he and Mrs. Dub will spend at least a week at Schmidt's on their return trip to Buffalo.

Long lists of registrations are to be found at all the local hotels now a-days, and the beauty of it all is that almost all of the arrivals are "regulars" who will spend the entire winter season in Daytona. Indeed, a surprisingly small percent of the guests at local hotels are transient, and most of those who have already made their arrangements to go farther south for a part of the season, are making reservations at the local hotels for later in the spring.

Path to Complete Success.

Man is the most successful creature so far, because he has kept his balance, but the worst thing about him is the size of his brain, for it indicates that he has let himself grow too much in one direction. Biology teaches us that success is attained by keeping the power to improve; by going out and struggling; by not looking around for a snap, but principally by not permitting oneself to grow into a rut.

Efficiency of Arc Lamps.

The use of arc lamps under high atmospheric pressure has been reported by Professor Lummer of Breslau, and give great increase in efficiency. Under 20 amperes the temperature of the arc was raised from about 3,500 to 7,500 per cent, and the brightness increased to 18 times the ordinary.

New Facts About Microbes.

It has just been discovered that the sudden cooling of the atmosphere has the effect of transporting microbes and localizing them in certain regions. The cold surfaces attract them from a distance almost instantaneously, the smaller being transported farther than the larger ones. These discoveries throw light upon the origin of certain epidemics and may be useful in helping us to decide what climates are the most healthful.

Merit in Overcoming Obstacles.

To seek to do only the easy things of life is a foolish and unfortunate choice, for anybody, even a non-entity, can do these things. Let us rise, rather, to do things, the overcoming of which will bring to us moral strength, a tested fortitude, and a wider experience of the deeper meanings of human life.—Christian Register.

MRS. M. A. BROWN.

Originally a Chinese Bird.

Pheasants, notwithstanding their aristocratic magnificence of appearance, readily interbreed with humbler kinds of birds, including the common barnyard fowl, the guinea hen and the black grouse. English pheasants are the descendants of Chinese birds, which, long ago, were brought to England and crossed either with grouse or with some unidentified native species of pheasant, which possessed no great beauty. The descendant of a male pheasant and a domestic hen is known as a "pero."

Pheasants and Turkeys.

The fame of the pheasant in England and western Europe rests upon its qualities as a game fowl, and the species known there are not remarkable for beauty. Pheasants are not indigenous to America, and here the ruffed grouse is often mistakenly called a pheasant. Our native turkeys are closely related to the pheasant family.

To Melt Paraffin.

Take a large empty tomato can or any other large can; cut it off from the top all around about two inches from the bottom with a can opener. It is large enough for any jar and deep enough to paraffin a little way past the cover of the jar if there is enough paraffin in when melted to fill can three-fourths full. It can be put right on the stove and the paraffin melts very quickly.

"Dastardly" Youth.

A child-loving teacher tells this story as illustrating the curious association of ideas often entertained by children. "I do love Bruce," one of her small pupils exclaimed in ecstasy. "He's so awfully dastardly. There's nothing under heaven that he doesn't dast do!"

When Friendship Fails.

Told While Waiting For A Train

By EDITH V. ROSS

"You detectives," I said to Bentley, "must have lots of queer cases to tell about. Can't you give me one while we're waiting for the train?"

Bentley looked at his watch. The train was due at 12:45, and it was just 12:05.

"The only one I can think of that is short enough to get into ten minutes is a case wherein a valuable sapphire had been stolen. The thief was known, and all there was to do was to get the property. A jewel is so small that it can be easily got away with, or if necessary to the thief's safety it can be lost either where it can be found by him or where it can never be recovered.

"A man of the name of Prichard and stolen the stone from one who saw him take it. Therefore there was no doubt about it. I was telephoned for immediately and was with the owner five minutes after the theft. He described the thief to me—a man with red head, striped waistcoat and tuft of beard on his chin. He had gone up the street. I was to find him and recover the property.

"Not much chance, eh? That's just what it was—chance. I hurried up the street and had the good luck to see a man as described coming out of a jeweler's. That was enough for me. He might have sold the sapphire to the jeweler. If so it would keep; if not it was my job to get it. I followed him to another jeweler's and, going in after him, waited for him to offer the article for sale. But he gave me a suspicious look, asked the jeweler to show him some scarfpins and went out without betraying himself.

"Of course I followed him. Being quite sure from his having entered the second store that he had not yet parted with the stone and believing that he had it on his person, I shadowed him or, rather, kept close to him, in order that he might not drop it without my seeing him do it. Of course this gave me away to him, and it was not long before he knew what I was about, though I fancy he wondered how I got on to him so quickly and possibly how I got on to him at all, for he did not know that he was seen to take the property.

"The problem with him now was how he could elude me, if not how he could get rid of the gem in a way that would admit of his getting it again, or, if this also was impossible, how he might drop it where it would be lost to him. He dodged into alleys, cut into back yards, went through buildings, but I kept not over twenty yards behind him. Then he took a trolley car. I boarded it and took a seat opposite him, but the car was so crowded that if I had attempted to take the sapphire from him he might have been able to lose it without my knowledge.

"He stuck to the car till it reached the terminal, which was on the outskirts of the town. There were a few houses where the car stopped, beyond that open ground. My quarry set off walking on a road till he came to a fork. There he hesitated which road to take, and I made up my mind that he was losing his nerve.

"Hastily following the road but stooping to pick up several stones. I knew what they were for and drew my revolver. Suddenly he turned and stood at bay. The next thing I knew a stone grazed my cheek. I called on him to stop throwing stones and give himself up, promising my protection to enforce my demand. Whether or not he believed I would hit shoot, he kept on throwing such stones as he picked up on the road, some large, some small. At last I fired a shot to miss, and this brought him to terms.

"'I want a valuable sapphire you have in your possession,' I said.

"'I ain't got no sapphire,' was the dogged reply.

"I advanced and arrested him. Taking him back to the trolley terminal near which was a police station, I took him to the latter and searched him.

"The sapphire was not to be found.

"He had beaten me after all. The only course left me was to drop him, putting another man on to him to shadow him with a view to being on hand when he regained the stolen property—that is, if he had got rid of it where he could find it again. So I held him till I had got a man from the agency, then let him go. I took a trolley car back to town, and the thief took the same car; also the man I had directed to shadow him.

"Prichard on the way home abused me soundly, declaring that I had intended to rob him and he would have me arrested and sent up. I paid no attention to him, buying an evening newspaper and reading it. When we reached the city I left him in charge of my deputy and went home to dinner.

"The next morning when I went to the office there was Prichard in charge of a policeman. My shadower had watched all night before the house where he had slept and in the morning immediately after daybreak had followed him without himself being noticed to the place where he had stoned me. Prichard spent nearly half an hour looking for something. Finally he stooped, picked up what seemed to be a pebble, put it in his pocket and returned to the trolley terminal. There he was arrested, taken again to the police station and the sapphire found in his pocket. He had thrown it at me as one of the stones.

"A very ingenious way of getting rid of it, wasn't it?

"Here comes our train."

PUBLIC INSPECTION OF HOSTELRY JAN. 14

RESIDENTS OF SEABREEZE AND DAYTONA BEACH INVITED TO INSPECT THE BIG HOTEL ON THURSDAY.

The management of Hotel Clarendon has caused printed cards to be distributed extending to the citizens and residents of Seabreeze and Daytona Beach an invitation to visit and inspect the Hotel Clarendon between the hours of 2:00 p. m. and 4:00 p. m., on Thursday, January 14, 1915.

A special musical program has been arranged and will be rendered by the orchestra on this occasion. The opportunity that is offered the people of the peninsula to inspect one of the finest tourists hotels in the world will no doubt be taken advantage of by hundreds, many of whom have never seen its equal, because of the fact that there are few like it in existence.

Self-Deception.

Another pathetic little feature of everyday life is the way every bullet-headed old cuss in the audience will prick up his ears and look keenly interested when the candidate announces that he now wishes to address a few remarks to thinking men. —Columbus (Ohio) Journal.

Richness of Life.

In our friends the richness of life is proved to us by what we have gained; in the faces in the street the richness of life is proved to us by a hint of what we have lost.—Browning.

TWO PROMINENT FAMILIES HERE FOR THE SEASON

Among the latest arrivals at the Clarendon are included Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. McKeel with their two children, maid and nurse. The party is domiciled in a cottage adjoining the hotel and will remain the entire season. This is the second year that the McKeels have made Seabreeze their winter home. The Hubbell family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Hubbell and daughter, Miss Esther, were Clarendon guests Monday. They will spend the winter in Seabreeze.

Chances Are He Saw the Point.

There is a Baltimore divine who can administer a rebuke delicately, but, on occasion, he sees to it that the point is plain. Once a rich member of his congregation, who is very close to the minister, spoke of his intention to go abroad. "I have never been on the ocean," said he to the clergyman, "and I would like to learn of something that will prevent me from becoming seasick." "You might swallow a dime," said the divine. "You'll never give that up."

HOW MANY TIMES HAVE YOU SAID

"IF I HAD ONLY BOUGHT LOTS OVER ON THE BEACH WHEN I FIRST CAME HERE I MIGHT HAVE BEEN RICH TODAY. I COULD HAVE BOUGHT ACRES FOR THE PRICE AT WHICH SINGLE LOTS ARE SELLING TODAY. ACREAGE CANNOT BE BOUGHT AT ANY PRICE. WHAT A FOOL I WAS." LET US POINT OUT A WAY FOR YOU TO GET IN AND MAKE UP.

DID YOU IMAGINE SUCH A THING AS A STREET CAR LINE TO THE BEACH FIVE YEARS AGO? PERHAPS YOU DID IMAGINE IT—IT IS A REALITY NOW. WOULD YOU HAVE BEGGED, BORROWED, OR ARRANGED IN SOME WAY TO GET HOLD OF ENOUGH MONEY TO BUY SOME BEACH PROPERTY, COULD YOU HAVE BEEN ASSURED THAT A CAR LINE WAS GOING TO BE BUILT TO YOUR PROPERTY? IF ANYONE COULD HAVE TOLD YOU POSITIVELY THAT THE CLARENDON HOTEL WAS GOING TO BE BUILT WHERE IT IS, WOULD YOU NOT HAVE DONE LIKEWISE, BOUGHT ALL THE PROPERTY POSSIBLE, ACCORDING TO YOUR MEANS? COULD ANYONE HAVE ASSURED YOU THAT THE NAUTILUS PROPERTY WAS TO BE IMPROVED AS IT IS TODAY—THAT A BASEBALL PARK WAS TO BE BUILT WHERE IT IS, WOULD YOU NOT HAVE BOUGHT ALL THE PROPERTY YOU COULD HAVE GOT HOLD OF?

THE STREET CAR LINE IS NOW BEING EXTENDED THROUGH OCEAN VIEW HEIGHTS, WHICH WILL PUT IT WITHIN TWELVE MINUTES' RIDE OF DOWNTOWN. COMPARE THE PRICES OF SEABREEZE LOTS WITH THE PRICES WE ARE ASKING FOR OCEAN VIEW HEIGHTS LOTS. WE ARE OFFERING THE OCEAN FRONT LOTS, WHICH ARE FIFTY BY THREE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FOUR, AT SIX HUNDRED AND NINETY-FIVE DOLLARS EACH, WHILE THE INSIDE LOTS, FIFTY BY ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY, ARE OFFERED AT ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY DOLLARS EACH. A TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT PAYMENT IS ALL THAT IS REQUIRED DOWN, WITH EASY TERMS.

WERE WE TO PREDICT THAT WITHIN A FEW YEARS THE ENTIRE BEACH WILL HAVE A BOARD-WALK WITH AN OCEAN PIER, LARGE HOTELS, WHICH WILL COMPARE FAVORABLY WITH THOSE OF ATLANTIC CITY. THAT STREET CAR LINES WILL CONNECT WITH DELAND, NEW SMYRNA, SANFORD, ORLANDO AND OTHER INTERIOR POINTS, YOU WOULD CALL US DREAMERS, BUT WE ARE PREDICTING JUST THAT VERY THING. NOW THINK OF WHAT THIS WILL MEAN TO THE PROPERTY ON THE BEACH. NOW IS THE TIME, MR. READER, TO GET IN ON THE GROUND FLOOR WHILE THESE PRICES ARE REDICULOUSLY LOW, FOR WHEN ALL THESE THINGS SHALL HAVE TAKEN PLACE THE PRICES NATURALLY WILL BE WAY UP, AND YOU SHOULD BE THE ONE TO REAP THE BENEFIT, FOR ONCE IN YOUR LIFE PUT YOURSELF IN THE POSITION WHERE THE OTHER FELLOW WILL HAVE TO SAY, "YOU HAVE MADE A LOT OF MONEY ON LOTS WHICH YOU WERE FARSIGHTED ENOUGH TO PURCHASE WHEN THE PRICES WERE LOW."

IT'S NOT LUCK—IT IS JUST GOOD BUSINESS SENSE—TAKING ADVANTAGE OF AN OPPORTUNITY—AN OPPORTUNITY THAT DOES NOT COME EVERY DAY, AND YOU SHOULD NOT DELAY. IT WILL BE A PLEASURE TO DEMONSTRATE THE PROPERTY TO YOU, IF YOU WILL GIVE US THE OPPORTUNITY, AND TELL YOU OF THE CONTEMPLATED IMPROVEMENTS AND ANY FURTHER PARTICULARS THAT YOU MAY DESIRE. NOW IS THE TIME TO INVESTIGATE. OPPORTUNITY IS KNOCKING AT YOUR DOOR. DON'T PASS IT UP.

Letter of the Law.

The little stenographer had been typewriting so steadily all day that at bedtime her tired brain kept working in the same way, and she found herself murmuring: "Capital—Our space capital—Father comma—(Goodness! what am I saying?)" So she conscientiously began again. But, in spite of her efforts, the prayer ended with "Capital—Amen period—" and a sleepy, apologetic giggle.

THE WEATHER.

Praised be allah! here's great news. It's going to be fair some more and its' going to be warmer—tomorrow. The usually inconsiderate and altogether careless weather man has framed up Florida as follows for the next day or so: Fair tonight with frost in the northern and central portions. Thursday fair and warmer. Moderate northwest winds, becoming variable.

YACHT "WATEREE" IN A PERILOUS POSITION

ENGINES DISABLED YACHT DRIFTS ON SAND BAR AND ASSISTANCE IS SUMMONED TO SAVE BOAT FROM SINKING.

Capt. C. M. McDonald received a call for assistance this morning from the yacht Wateree, which had met with an accident somewhere south of the Port Orange bridge and was in danger of sinking.

It appears that the yacht's engines became disabled in some manner and the boat drifting against a sandbar careened and began to fill. The crew was working hard to keep the yacht afloat until Captain McDonald arrived with additional help and apparatus.

The Wateree, which had been at the Austin hotel dock for about two weeks, left Tuesday for a cruise along the lower East Coast, having on board her owner, Dr. C. T. Adams, and Geo. W. Guard.

TURKS CONTINUE STUBBORN RESISTANCE.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 13.—The capture of the 92nd Turkish regiment by Russians in Trans-Caucasia was officially reported today. There is hard fighting with the Turkish rear guard in the direction of Olty and along the Olytsu river. Fighting to the south of Sarikamisch continues.

The Turkish advance guard occupied Tapriz, Persia, Wednesday.

DOVER ATTACKED AGAIN.

DOVER, Jan. 13.—Another German submarine attack against Dover was made today but was repulsed by heavy guns in the forts guarding the harbor. It is reported that airships headed for the British coast were seen over the English channel last night.

ZAPATA LEAVING MEXICAN CAPITAL.

VERA CRUZ, Jan. 13.—Zapata's army is evacuating Mexico City in the face of two Carranza columns, which are advancing from the east and southeast.

TURKS CLAIM PROGRESS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 13.—The Turks have occupied Irenia, and have taken all dominating frontier positions during the past fortnight. Deep snow is impeding operations in the vicinity of Olty and Ardahan.

NOTICE THE ADVERTISEMENTS IN EACH ISSUE

CHRISTIAN CHURCH FIRE A "BLESSING IN DISGUISE"

To paraphrase an old saying: It's a slow fire that glows brightness for nobody. But who would have imagined that the slack-lime blaze in the basement of the Christian church, Monday evening, possessed any merit whatever except that of aggravating the fire department with its puny incipiency—the blaze, not the department.

It was stated in the Daily News' account of the fire that the lime was spoiled. Why not? Hadn't the damp atmosphere caused the queer stuff to go off on a riproaring rampage and try to burn up its own barrels and the church to boot? And hadn't the fire lads gone over and doused the whole neighborhood with a stream of water as big as a mule's front leg and as strong as the hind one? Sure thing—most incontrovertibly sure. Some things, be it known, are beyond the realm of reason and, therefore(in this instance), utterly devoid of rhyme, as witness: Those barrels of lime were the property of A. Vande Vord, the well-known contractor and builder. Which is about all, except that he called at this office Tuesday afternoon and informed a representative of the paper that the lime's baptism had placed it in exactly the condition he desired it, and that he had been saved the considerable trouble which the process of "slacking" usually occasions.

Incidentally, another point has been scored for the immersionists.

AMUSEMENT CORPORATION BEING ORGANIZED HERE

A corporation to be known as the Florida Amusement company and composed of W. L. Snead, Vere Almendinger and Fairfax Ludlow is being organized here. The object of the corporation will be to organize and finance a theatrical company and to otherwise exploit histrionic talent. Messrs. Snead and Almendinger left for Atlanta, Tuesday morning, to engage actors, actresses, and pharaphernalia.

The Florida Amusement company will open here with a show at the New Daytona theatre on January 26, or on February 4.

Resourceful Servant.

"What!" cried the mistress to her new maid, whom she had found sitting down in the library with her hands folded. "Here you are sitting down! Why, you were sent in here to dust the room!" "Yes, ma'am," was the girl's reply, "but I have lost the duster, and so I am sitting on each of the chairs in turn!"
